On the Upper East Side of New York , we discover this elegant and luxurious New York house pays tribute to the crafts that built the building that houses it, 180 East 88th Street, a residential tower built at the beginning of the century AD with an impressive brick facade and Handmade arches that have been renovated by the architects of the DDG studio. All these architectural elements have been the source of inspiration for the interior designer Hadas Dembo , from the Mise en Scene Design studio, to design the spaces of the house.

The 130 square meter house offers spectacular views from the city and has two bedrooms with large windows, two bathrooms, living room, kitchen and dining room, which is accessed by a beautiful corridor with decorated walls. The different rooms give off a special appeal and a cozy and elegant atmosphere. The chosen furniture combines contemporary pieces and other vintage style pieces, achieving balanced and very sophisticated spaces. Some of the pieces include works by Joaquim Tenreiro, rugs by Cheshmeh and the illuminated glass and brass sculpture Vine designed by artist Jeff Zimmerman.
